

ENGLISH PRACTICE

- 1) Yesterday, in the middle of Central Park (New York), the murderer called Charles Waykings, who had ever been caught and sent to jail a month earlier, has been recaptured by the police after an impressive evasion.
- 2) The largest boat of the United States of America was sinking Thursday near Florida after percuting the bottom of the ocean, while he was comming back from a long trip of 16 hours.
- 3) Monday, in the greatest and more expensive pet-shop of San Francisco, Paris Hilton has been gift by her mother a black cat nammed Greezy for an amazing price of $3 millions.
- 4) The Madrid's Art Gallery was very quiet this afternoon. At 7 o'clock, while the visitors were waiting for the gallery to open, 3 men wearing black clothes and hoods ran out from the entrance with 4 paintings...worthless.
- 5) The floods in the south of Florida killed 20 persons stucked in their home. The desaster also made 200 civils out of their destroyed houses. About 1 millions dollars are requiered to clean up the city.
- 6) Ben C. Junior was as surprised as his concurents : Wednesday, the recent major boy had been elected mayor of a little city in the north of Texas...by 49% of the votes.
- 7) Coca Cola's factory is now being in a great panic : the director in head of the internationnal company has been forced to quit his job after the discovery of money traffics with several soda's companies.
- 8) The -now- famous runner number 8 of the 50 miles competition happening in Nevada failled the drug test about an hour before the start, he admited that he took about 15 gramms of cocaine 2 weeks earlier.